3.1 Conflict of interest

As per Article 44 of Law 1952 of 2019⁸ (General Disciplinary Code), a conflict of interest arises when a Banrep employee has a particular and direct interest in the regulation, management, control, or decision of an issue in which they intervene or act on the basis of their position or functions⁹.

- a. There is a particular interest when the regulation, management, control, or decision generates a specific benefit or advantage¹⁰ to the Banrep employee, or to his/her spouse or domestic partner, their relatives within the fourth degree of consanguinity, second degree of affinity or first degree of civilian kinship (Degrees of kinship are presented in Annex 1) or to their partners in de facto corporation, or de jure corporation¹¹. The specific benefit may be of a personal, labor, economic, or financial nature, among others¹².

Annex 1. Degrees of kinship

Consanguinity
Civil code. Article 35. " Kinship of consanguinity . Kinship of consanguinity is the relationship or connection that exists between persons who descend from the same trunk or root, or who are united by the bonds of blood."
First grade	Parents/Children
Second grade	Siblings/Grandparents/Grandchildren
Third grade	Uncles-Aunts/Nephews and Nieces/Great-grandparents
Fourth grade	Cousins/Great-uncles and Great-aunts/Great-nephews and Great-nieces
Affinity
Civil code. Article 47. " Legitimate affinity . Legitimate affinity exists between a person who has been married and the legitimate blood relatives of their spouse. The line or degree of legitimate affinity of a person with a blood relative of their spouse, is qualified by the line or degree of legitimate consanguinity of said husband or wife with the said consanguineous. Thus a man is in the first degree of legitimate affinity, in the straight line, with the of his wife from the previous marriage; in the second degree of legitimate affinity, in the transversal line, with the legitimate brothers of his wife. "

Affinity
By means of the judicial ruling C-595 of 1996, reporting judge Dr. Jorge Arango Mejía, the Constitutional Court declared unenforceable article 48 – and article 39 – of the Civil Code, which established: "Illegitimate affinity. It is the one that exists between one of the persons who have not contracted marriage and are connected by lustful desires, and the legitimate or illegitimate blood relatives of the other, or between any of the persons who are or have been married and the illegitimate blood relatives of the other." Despite the declaration of unconstitutionality, the Constitutional Court affirmed in the judgment that "(...) the declaration of unenforceability of articles 39 and 48 does not imply the disappearance of extramarital affinity, that is, the one originated in the permanent union referred to in articles 126 and 179 of the Constitution, among others. For all legal purposes, extramarital affinity continues to exist." The Fifth Section of the Council of State has considered in its jurisprudence that, for the purposes of the inability dealt with in the final paragraph of paragraph 5 of article 33 of Law 617 of 2000, the expression "or has been" used in article 47 of the Civil Code to define the link by affinity must not be used. Thus, affinity by effect of marriage or de facto marital union exists only as long as the bond remains unbroken. (See. Judgment of May 2, 2013. C.P. Alberto Yepes Barreiro. File number: 08001233100020110141701).
First grade	In-laws/Stepchildren/sons-in-law and daughters-in-law
Second grade	Brothers-in-law/Grandparents or grandchildren of the spouse or permanent partner of the worker
Civil Kinship
Civil code. Article 50. "Civil kinship. It results from the adoption, by which the law considers that the adopter, his wife and the adoptive parent are among themselves, respectively, in the relation of father, mother, child. This kinship does not go beyond the respective persons."
Single grade	Adopted children/adoptive parents

b. There is a direct interest when the profit or benefit is generated immediately—without external circumstances or factors—from the regulation, management, control, or decision of the respective case¹³. This means that there is no direct interest when it is simply hypothetical or accidental¹⁴.

The following should be taken into account in situations where a conflict of interest may arise:

- i. Disclose relations of kinship or partnership in fact or by law.
- ii. Declare any private or financial interest that the Banrep employee, their spouse, or domestic partner, or his/her relatives or partners to hereinbefore mentioned have with third parties acting as Banrep contractors, particularly acting as a member of decision-making bodies such as the Purchase Committee or management areas with power to enter into contracts. Once the impediment has been exposed, the Banrep employee shall refrain from participating in the decision to contract or assess the supplier.

- iii. Declare any private or financial interest arising from the Banrep's employee or his or her relatives or partners hereinbefore mentioned with third parties who act as counterparty of Banrep's in the trading desks. Once the impediment has been exposed, the Banrep employee shall refrain from negotiating with such a counterparty.
 - iv. Declare any private or financial interest of a Banrep employee, their spouse, or domestic partner, their relatives or partners hereinbefore mentioned when they are responsible to decide as a member of committees or other internal or external decision-making bodies. Once the impediment has been exposed, the Banrep employee shall refrain from participating in the corresponding decision.
 - v. Accept only third-party gifts referred to in Section 7.2 of this Code.

The internal regulations set the procedure to be followed by Banrep employees to declare their impediments or motions for recusal. It is up to their superiors, the committee or corresponding body to decide on the matter.

Numeral 5 of article 56 of Law 1952 of 2019¹⁵ states that it is a gross negligence by public servants not to declare the impediment in a timely manner, whenever there may be an obligation to do so; to delay the motion for recusals or to act after being separated from the matter.

3.2 Inabilities and Incompatibilities

Banrep employees should be aware of situations that generate inabilities and incompatibilities under the rules governing the exercise of their duties and provide the information requested

The members of the Board of Directors and the Governor are subject to the special inabilities and incompatibilities provided for in Articles 30 and 31 of Law 31 of 1992 (Articles 31 and 32 of the Bylaws of the Central Bank),¹⁶ and all other Banrep employees, those established in Articles 51 and 52 of the Bylaws of Banrep¹⁷. In addition, both the Board Members and the Governor, as well as all other Banrep employees, are subject to the inabilities and incompatibilities set forth in Articles 122¹⁸, 127¹⁹, 128²⁰ and 129²¹ of the political Constitution as well as those provided for in the Disciplinary Code, common to all public servants.

Also, Banrep employees should apply the regime of inabilities and incompatibilities provided for in the General Contracting Regulations for Public Administration²² in connection with contracting procedures at Banrep.

3.3 Political Activity

As per Article 110 of the Political Constitution²³, as public servants, Banrep employees cannot make any contribution to political parties, political movements, or candidates, nor can they induce others to do so, subject to exceptions provided by the law. Failure to comply with any of these prohibitions may result in destitution.

Article 127 of the Political Constitution^{24 25} and numerals 1 and 2 of Article 60 of Law 1952 of 2019²⁶ state that the use of the position as employee by public servants to participate in the activities of the political parties, political movements, and political disputes, or to pressure individuals or subordinates to support a political cause or campaign, or to influence electoral processes of a partisan political nature, may constitute a very serious disciplinary fault.

Based on the provisions of Law 1952 of 2019, the Office of the Attorney General of the Nation has stated that public servants must refrain, among others, from²⁷:

- a. To use the authority with which they are vested to serve a political cause.
- b. To use elements intended for public service to proselytize or to carry out political electoral activity in any sense.
- c. To use reserved information from the institution to which they may have access due to their position to proselytize or to perform political electoral activity in any sense.
- d. To exonerate themselves from the fulfillment of their constitutional and legal duties under the excuse of exercising the right of political participation.
- e. Using service time or working hours to manage political interests.

On the other hand, Article 38 of Law 996 of 2005²⁸ establishes the additional prohibitions²⁹ for public servants listed below, which constitute gross negligence as disciplinary fault:

- a. Disseminate political advertisement for or against any political party, grouping, or political movement through publications, official tv and radio stations, or public printing, except as authorized by law.
- b. To favor those under their charge with improper promotions, bonuses, or employee promotion provided that participate in their same cause or political campaign, without prejudice to competitions on the merits which, under public conditions of equality and impartiality, may offer such possibilities to public servants.
- c. To offer any kind of direct, particular, immediate, and improper benefit to citizens or communities, through works or actions of the public administration in order to influence someone's intention to vote.

3.4 Report on property, income, and private economic activity

Banrep employees have the duty to file and present to the Registry and Services Area of the Planning and Administrative Management Department the Sworn Declaration of Goods and Income and Private Economic Activity upon their entry to Banrep. This declaration must be updated annually within the time limit established for this purpose, and at the time of retirement from Banrep, in accordance with Law 190 of 1995 and its regulatory decrees³⁰.

3.5 Compliance with civil, labor, commercial, or family obligations

According to numeral 11 of Article 39 of Law 1952 of 2019³¹, Banrep employees are forbidden to fail repeatedly and unreasonably the compliance of civil, labor, commercial, or family obligations imposed by judicial decisions or admitted at conciliation proceedings³².

The Constitutional Court has stated that this prohibition seeks to guarantee that public servants respond to the citizen's model of fulfilling their legal obligations and that they do not harm the public image of the State³³.

3.6 Use of Banrep's Physical and Technological Resources

Article 38, numeral 22 of Law 1952 of 2019³⁴ provides that it is the duty of every public servant to monitor and safeguard the goods and values entrusted to them and to ensure that they are used properly and rationally, in accordance with the purposes for which they have been intended. Also, numeral 23³⁵ of the same article provides that public servants must respond for the preservation of the tools, equipment, furniture, and property entrusted to their guard or administration and to account for their timely use.

For its part, Article 39, numeral 12 of Law 1952 of 2019³⁶ provides that all public servants are prohibited to cause harm or loss of property, elements, files, or documents that have come to their power to exercise their functions.

Banrep has made available to Banrep employees physical and technological resources that must be used safely, efficiently, and effectively by them to develop their functions.

Banrep has determined the guidelines for the management of fixed assets of Banrep, including activities aimed at their conservation, control, optimized use, and safeguard against loss, damage, or deterioration due to actions that may affect their value or functionality.

Banrep employees may make personal use of both the physical and electronic resources of Banrep provided that such use is limited (both in terms of resource consumption and working time), reasonable, and do not adversely affect the performance of their duties, confidentiality, and security of Banrep information, and resource availability³⁷

¹⁹ Article 127 of the Constitution states: “Public servants, either on their behalf or by intermediators, or on behalf of others, shall not enter into any contract with public entities or private persons who manage or administer public resources, except for exceptions made by the law.

State Employees operating in the Judicial Branch or in electoral, control, and security agencies are forbidden to participate in the activities of political parties and political movements and in political disputes, without prejudice to the free exercise of the right to vote. The limitations referred to in Article 219 of the Constitution apply to members of the Public Force in active duty. Employees not covered by this prohibition may only participate in such activities and disputes under the conditions laid down in the Statutory Law.

The use of employment position to pressure citizens to support a political cause or campaign is considered a cause of misconduct.

²⁴ Article 127 of the Constitution establishes: “Public servants may not enter into any contract, by themselves or by person, or on behalf of another, with public or private entities that manage or administer public resources, except for exceptions made by the law.”

The limitations provided for in article 219 of the Constitution apply to members of the Security Forces in active service.

Employees not covered by this prohibition may participate in such activities and disputes only under the conditions laid down in the Statutory Law.

The use of employment position to pressure citizens to support a political cause or campaign is a cause of misconduct.

²⁵ Regarding Article 127 of the Constitution, see Constitutional Court. Judgment C-794, 2014 (M.P. Mauricio Gonzalez Cuervo) and State Council. Consultation and Civil Service Chamber. Concept on December 03, 2013. Filed: 11001-03-06-000-2013-00534-00. Reporting Judge: Alvaro Namen Vargas.

²⁶ Numerals 1 and 2 of article 60 of Law 1952 of 2019 state: “Faults related to intervention in politics. 1. Use the office to participate in the activities of political parties and political movements and in political disputes, without prejudice to the rights provided for in the Constitution and the law. 2. Use the employment position to pressure individuals or subordinates to support a political cause or campaign or to influence in electoral processes of a partisan political nature.”

²⁷ Based on legal rules, Directive 008 of June 17, 2019, the Office of the Attorney General stated that in addition to the conduct described, public servants must refrain from:

- i. Using the position to favor or support political causes of candidates for popular elections.
- ii. Using their employment as a means of pressure on citizens to promote a particular cause or campaign.
- iii. Using the contractual capacity of the State or its institutions to influence in a political cause.

²⁹ Article 38, numeral 1 of Law 996 of 2005 states that public servants are forbidden to: “1. Harass, lobby, or influence, in any way, subordinates to support any cause, campaign, or political controversy.” In addition, it sets that they are forbidden to: “(…) 5. Provide reasons of “good service” to dismiss officials classified in career service positions.”

³¹ Article 39, numeral 11 of Law 1952 of 2019 states: “Prohibitions. All public servers are forbidden to: (….) 11. Repeatedly and unjustifiably breach civil, labor, business, or family obligations imposed in court decisions or admitted to in conciliation proceedings.”

³³ In this regard, see Sentences C-728 of 2000 and C-949 of 2002, issued by the Constitutional Court. In these sentences, the Court declares the following: “The purpose of the rule under review is to ensure that public servants respond to the citizen’s model that meets their legal obligations and does not harm the public image of the State. Several reasons may lie behind this objective: on the one hand, that officials are the most visible representation of the State and their actions are expected to be consistent with the views proposed about the political community and the role of each of the associates within it; on the other hand, that public servants are responsible for carrying out state activities for the benefit of citizens and that, consequently, they must guarantee with their life that in the development of their duties will respond to the general interests of the community; furthermore, that, to a possible extent, public servants are freed from the disadvantages and disruptions that result from the continuing difficulties and disagreements arising from the failure to comply with private obligations, so that they can devote themselves fully to their work and the state entities shall not be involved in such conflicts; and finally, that the officials do not protect themselves as servants of the State to commit outrages on the understanding that their condition infuses fear in those affected by their decisions.”

³⁴ Article 38, numeral 22 of Law 1952 of 2019 states: “Duties. The duties of every public servant are: (...) 22. To monitor and safeguard the goods and values entrusted to them and to care that they are used properly and rationally, in accordance with the purposes for which they have been given.”

³⁵ Article 38, numeral 23 of Law 1952 of 2019 states: “Duties. The duties of every public servant are: (...) 23. To be responsible for the conservation of the tools, equipment, furniture, and property entrusted to their guard or administration and to render account in due time for their use.”

³⁶ Article 39, numeral 12 of Law 1952 of 2019 states: “Prohibitions. All public servers are forbidden to (...) 12. “Cause damage or the loss of goods, items, files, or documents that have come to their possession because of their functions.”

³⁷ The Internal Regulation of Banrep states *that the technological resources that the Bank makes available to the persons who provide their services to it for the execution of their functions are Bank’s property. Banrep allows limited (resource consumption and working hours) and reasonable use of these for personal matters, provided that the confidentiality and general security of the Bank’s information are protected, the compliance of the duties and labor obligations of each employee and/or contractor, the availability of resources, the security of the Bank’s technological infrastructure, and the effectiveness and timeliness of the services provided to the rest of the Bank or its clients are not compromised.
